UPLAND COTTON 30C

WRITER SAYS PRICES NOT UNREASONABLE.

(Augusta Herald).

The cotton mills, the goods market, the ultimate consumer, the American people, the people of the entire world are interested in the present planting of the south's cotton crop. They will get more and more interested as the days go by, as the seed begins to come up, as it is chopped out, and reports of the various stands are given to the world. Sunshine and rain, and grass and labor conditions, storms and freshets, and continued droughts will all play their part in the news of the present cotton crop of the south. And finally, after many months of watching and waiting and guessing the size of this year's crop, not all of which is even yet in the ground, will become part of the history of the country.

In the meantime, it is well for the world to look facts squarely in the face. One writer puts it that 30 cents a pound is not an unreasonable price to pay the south for its raw cotton. And this is the view that more and more people who raise cotton, who sell cotton, who manufacture cotton, and who handle cotton goods and wholesale and retail them, are arriving at. The man who takes cheap cotton—7 and 8 cents cotton—whether he is a manufacturer or a selling agent, is making trouble for himself, his friends, his stockholders, his friends and the trade in which he makes his living.

Here are some significant facts that it is well to bear in mind. In the past seven years we have had the largest crops in the history of cotton, totalling some $6,426,000 bales, of this some two million bales were "inters" and of little commercial value. It is pointed out that there were actually used by the ultimate consumer over 88 million bales. In other words, in these seven years with the seven largest crops, we have lacked over four million, possibly as high as four million, bales of having cotton crops large enough to fill the demand. This does not look much like cheap cotton, whatever the size of the present crop that is not yet even finished in the planting.

What is to be the answer to the present situation? Southern mills that are not making money—unfortunately there are a great many at the present time—in this class—must at least know somewhere else to put the blame. It is not the high price of cotton that is the cause for their failure to make dividends. If they expect to get the next crop at 7 and 8 cents and thus recoup their losses, they will find their second stage worse than the present.

In the first place, the price of cotton is not regulated by what the southern or American mills think or want to come about. It is the market of the world and world conditions that make the price of the south's and the world's cotton. And this world demand for the past seven years has been pointed out has been "steady in its growth, persistent and eager."

This same authority points out that even if the present price for raw cotton were doubled in the near future—if cotton sold for 30 cents per pound instead of for 15 cents per pound—that the change in price for the finished product would hardly be appreciable. Then why not make this change and let the world pay a fair profit on the manufactured goods? This seems to be the way out for all concerned in the trade. High prices for raw cotton, better wages for the workers in the mills, and but a small appreciation in the final price to the ultimate consumer?

These are suggestive figures and worth studying.

"A cotton dress weighs two pounds—a cotton shirt less than one-half a pound. To add 5 cents a pound to the price of the cotton crop would add ten cents to the price of each dress and two and a half cents to the price of each shirt. It would also add two hundred million dollars to the wealth of this country."

The United States consumes only 26 per cent of the world's cotton, while it produces 69 per cent. Southern and American mills will have to meet the world's price for cotton and that price is going to be higher and higher as long as the consumption is greater and out-runs the supply. Even at 30 cents per pound no satisfactory substitute for the south's cotton can be found.

There are hard-headed, practical, successful men today engaged in the buying and selling and manufacturing and marketing of cotton goods who believe in high and even higher prices for the south's cotton crop. They do not look to see cotton sell lower, whatever the size of the present crop, and they will tell you frankly as business men, as merchants and as manufacturers, they don't want to see lower prices prevail for the cotton crop.

As one of them said to the writer: "Time and again people rush into print, stating that the interest of the mills and farmers are inimical. I have never thought this, but just the reverse. If the farmers were more prosperous, the mills would certainly be, and if we could only silence the vast number of croakers in this country, cotton would sell on its proper basis all the time and the mills would receive the benefit as well the farmer and millworkers. Mills could and would pay their help better wages."

"I have just returned from New York and was surprised to find almost every mill agent with whom I came in contact talking 8½ and 9 cents cotton for the next crop. There is no better argument in the world to demoralize the mill interest at the present time and holding prices of cotton fabrics down to such a point that mills cannot manufacture them at a profit. For two days I did very little but talk and argue with these people that they were entirely mistaken, for I firmly believe that if we should make a fifteen million bale crop next season that cotton cannot possibly or will not go lower than 12½ cents, for two reasons: One is that the farmer cannot possibly plant and grow it as cheap as formerly, and the second is the world demands a larger supply, and at present it is undoubtedly short."

"Take, for instance, the European mills. Anyone can readily see from day to day that their purchases on the Liverpool market are enormous and from reliable sources it can be learned that the European mills are today contracting for next October cotton."

"The agents of the various cotton mills in Wall street and other streets where they are located in New York are as much responsible, not more so, than any other factor, in the price of cotton goods today."

And here is the situation—there is no reason for, and there is going to be no "cheap" cotton in the near future. It is to the interest of the country as well as largely to the interest of the people of the south that high prices for raw cotton and American mills cannot influence the price of cotton in the face

TO CARVE OLD GEORGIA?

PROPOSITION TO DIVIDE STATE IS NOT FAVORED

Commenting on the proposition to divide Georgia, the empire state of the South into two separate and glorious states, the Houston Post says: The Robertson (Ga.) Star contains this amusing paragraph: "J. L. Cawley has drafted a resolution which will be introduced into the Georgia legislature this summer, to memorialize congress to make two states out of Georgia, to be known as North and South Georgia."

What in the world is the matter over there among our Cracker friends that any such proposition should ever be hinted at? And what good could come to Georgia as a result of division?

Georgia is not a large commonwealth, measured by the areas of our Western commonwealths. Its population is homogeneous. All the inhabitants speak the Georgia language, which is a far better grade of talk than the fierce jargon of South Carolina, excepting, of course, the refined speech of Governor Coal Blaze. It seems to us that the people of the old commonwealth are bound together by almost insoluble ties of blood, religion, politics, history language, blind tigers and watermelons.

Two Georgias would, of course, give the Democrats two more senators in congress and two more electoral votes, but what would the Georgians themselves get? We cannot see that the people of North Georgia have any advantage over the people of the southern portion of the state. Even if North Georgia has the advantage of the moon shining industry in the "mountainings," South Georgia is in close of a "steady growth in demand, persistent and eager," by the whole world for the south's cotton. Southern mills and selling agents must look somewhere else to recoup present losses in the manufacture of cotton. To figure on cheap cotton for their needs for another year is a vain expensive hope.

And what the south has done in the past seven years will be small in comparison with what the south will do in the future as a price of cotton rises and rises to a satisfactory and fair selling basis which is conservatively estimated at no less than 20 cents per pound.

touch with Jacksonville, and Jacksonville has plighted its lives, fortunes and sacred honor that South Georgia shall never die of thirst while its life-saving corpse is able to wiggle.

Surely the discount cannot arise from the fact that the capital of the state is located in the northern section, far from the sunny reaches of the "watermill" district of the south. Even if that were the cause, Macon is trying to get the capital from Atlanta, and surely hereafter will succeed in two or three centuries at the most.

Admittedly, the two states will make more offices for Democratic patriots to fill, and that is an important consideration but even at that it is not likely that the two-state plan would give every Democrat an office. To divide a state merely to create offices would be a dangerous precedent. After awhile, we might find each of Georgia's hundred and forty odd counties a sovereign state, and even then there would not be offices enough to go round.

And then we must not ignore the economic aspects of the case. Suppose Georgia were shattered into fragments and every patriotic Cracker given an office? Who would do the work? Who would raise the melons, the goobers, the cotton and all those things which have made Georgia what it is and Georgians what they are? The negroes would scarcely be more than self-supporting, and we would have half a million office-holders with nobody to do the business and pay the taxes for their support.

We protest against the partition of Georgia. We join the Macon Telegraph in its noble slogan: "It is for Georgia—Greater Georgia—undivided and unseparable, now and forever." Mr. Cawley is respectfully requested to burn his resolution. All of us have an interest in Georgia and it shall never be carved so long as the sister commonwealths have the power through their representatives in congress to prevent it.

There's nothing too good for your eyes.

Between old fashioned spectacle fitting and optical service there is a very wide difference, and this difference counts in the preservation of sight. Failing or imperfect vision may be due to any of a large number of causes. These causes can be determined only by very delicate scientific tests, and each eye being tested separately according to correction needed.

I provide modern optical service; I learn just what the trouble is and correct it, having lenses specially ground when necessary. My charges for fitting glasses are reasonable.

SOUTH MAY BE PAID FOR HER CONFISCATED COTTON

JUDGE BARTLETT MAY SECURE THE MILLIONS NOW IN NATION'S TREASURY

Washington, D. C., June 10.—Persons who have given thought and study to the matter believe that the southern people are in the way of getting from the government the millions in the treasury, that represent the proceeds of cotton that was seized in the southern states after the close of the civil war. The thanks of the claimants are due to Judge Charles L. Bartlett, of the Sixth Georgia district, for an enabling amendment which may restore this money to the heirs of its rightful owners.

Judge Bartlett's amendment, which is now law, gives the court jurisdiction over all claims for cotton taken by the government during this period, and there is now in the treasury millions of dollars rightfully belonging to the southern people.

The question of loyalty does not enter into the adjudication of the cotton claims, but the people of the south should not confuse the cotton claims with the miscellaneous war claims, that have been pending in the court of claims and before congress for many years.

"Claude N. Bennett, formerly of Georgia, who is at the head of the congressional information bureau, has made an exhaustive study of the cotton claims question. He is probably the best posted man in Washington as to the method of procedure in these cases, and is now giving many of the claims his personal attention."

In discussing the cotton claims, Mr. Bennett today said:

"Through the initiative of Judge Bartlett, of the Sixth Georgia district, congress at its last session placed under the jurisdiction of the court of claims all claims for cotton taken by the federal government after the close of the civil war. There is now in the treasury millions of dollars which are the proceeds from the sales of such cotton. This forms but a small part of the cotton actually taken. Many of the government agents kept their records inaccurately. In many instances it has been impossible to trace the cotton to the person from whom it was taken. In some cases it has only been possible to follow it as a part of a large quantity composed of several lots mingled together.

"The sales were made at semi-monthly intervals between July, 1865, and October, 1866. After each sale the proceeds were deposited in the National Bank of Commerce, of New York, which was the United States depository, and transferred from time to time to the treasury at New York.

The funds were finally covered into the treasury as receipts from 'captured and abandoned property.' This cotton brought about 30 cents a pound, or $10 a bale—in some cases more, in some less. The various expenses of handling and selling it amounted to something like $30 or $35 a bale. The amount in the treasury covers the net proceeds.

"Heretofore it has been impossible to recover this money. It is now believed that upon proper proofs made through proper procedure, it can be recovered with reasonable promptness. The government records will be the proofs chiefly relied upon."

"In the collection of these claims the question of loyalty to the union does not enter. The chief difficulty in collecting most southern claims has been the necessity of proving that the claimant was loyal to the union. This has been particularly difficult because in most cases the claimant was not loyal—the better southerner he was the less likely he was to be loyal to the union in those 'pious days.' Some good day when congress is in a generous mood and patriotic enough to recognize that the south is again the best part of the union, it may remove the loyalty clause so that without regard to loyalty all worthy claims, of which there is proper proof, can be collected."

"But these claims for cotton taken after the war should not be confused with the great raft of miscellaneous war claims, many of which cannot be collected. Many people—as shown by inquiries to members of congress and to the congressional information bureau—have the idea that the legislation of last session made possible the quick collection of all war claims. In several instances claimants have sent in requests to collect the money and send it to them by next week."

TO STOP HANDLING LIQUOR ON JUNE 15

EXPRESS COMPANY GIVES NOTICE TO SAVANNAH DEALERS

Savannah, June 12.—Under a new ruling by the general counsel of the Southern Express Company, the ban is placed on the shipment of liquor packages from one part of Georgia to another, the prohibition to become effective next Thursday.

Those having wet packages for shipment from Savannah to interior parts of the state have been notified of the change and preparations are being made for some other means of shipment when the new rule of the express company goes into effect June 15th. It may mean the loss of a large amount of revenue from the local office of the express company.

On the other hand, it will be all right and in conformity to good express company law for an individual to ship a private package within the state to another person. For instance, if John has an extra fine quart of rye which he wishes the old man to enjoy out in the country the express company will receive his package, for John is not an habitual shipper for the purposes of pecuniary gain. But it cannot be labeled liquor, or the box. It must go as books, or merchandise, or something else.

The announcement of this change came to the local agent today from the superintendent under date of June 9th. It is stated that the company's counsel had made a new ruling of the question and decided that any shipment of "wet" packages by the express company from one part of the state to another was contrary to the law.

Counsel for the company holds that such shipments by those having business as liquor dealers constitutes a violation of the law because such shipments are made as a contract for carriage in pursuance of an already illegal contract of sale because the statute of Georgia holds that it is illegal to sell whiskey in the state.

However, the counsel for the express company takes pains to state that the shipment of a private package within the state by one individual who is known not to be engaged in the liquor business is all right and the new ruling does not extend to this class of shipments.

It is stated that the counsel for the express company has taken a different position on this question to that taken when the prohibition law first went into effect in Georgia. The attorney declared at that time that shipments of "wet" packages from one part of Georgia to another was all right. Since then, on a different reading of the law, he has come to the conclusion that the express company will refuse shipments of packages of intoxicants which follow a contract of sale, which is against the statutes of the state.

Indemnity for the Death of 303 Chinese at Tientsin Is Wanted.

Mexico City.—An indemnity of 12,000,000 pesos, the equivalent of $2,000,000 in gold, will be demanded by Mexico by the Chinese government for the slaughter of Chinese subjects in Tientsin. The demand will be backed by a cruiser, which is already on the way to the Mexican west coast ports.

Three investigators returned from Tientsin and placed in the hands of Shung Hui Sun, charge d'affaires of the Chinese legation, a detailed report of the carnage. The report shows that 303 Chinese were killed, many of them in a most inhuman manner, and that besides a bank and club house, eighty-nine places of business were destroyed.

In addition to the indemnity, an apology for insult to the Chinese flag will be demanded; also that aid be extended to destitute families of the victims, that the guilty be punished and the constitutional guarantee of protection to Chinese lives and property be made effective.

EARTHQUAKE KILLS MANY MEXICANS

THE REPEATED SEISMIC SHOCKS SPREAD DESTRUCTION IN CAPITAL OF MEXICO.

SHOCKS FOR 14 MINUTES

Majority of the Dead Soldiers Who Were Crushed When Their Barracks Were Wrecked.

Mexico City.—Sixty-three killed; 75 wounded; property loss, $100,000.

These are the not results of the earthquake which visited the capital and adjacent areas, as being here and there throughout the city there are many wounded who, with traditional fear of the authorities and government hospitals, are anxious to evade discovery.

The property loss is but an estimate, and is based upon calculations made by engineers and contractors. Little of the loss is covered by insurance.

It was 4:25 o'clock when the first shock was felt. According to the observatory, the greatest intensity was reached at the end of the first minute, but the instruments continued to record the shocks for fourteen minutes more. It was of a violent, twisting character, but almost free of repulsive motion.

More than half of the dead accounted for by the earthquake were soldiers in the barracks. The greatest damage was done to the barracks in San Cosma, a locality near the Mexican Central station. Another place where the earthquake took its toll of death in considerable numbers was at the city power plant of the street car company, where six were killed and six wounded.

With these two exceptions the death list was made up of single cases or in some instances of two and three. Caught beneath the falling walls in the poorer buildings of the district most seriously affected.

No personal property of Americans was damaged, and with the exception of one Chinese, no foreigner was injured. In the barracks where the soldiers were killed twelve women were also killed. They were the wives of the artillerymen.

The fury of the shock was spent in the northwestern and western part of the city. The most damage done was in that quarter of the city known as Santa Maria, although cracks in the pavement and walls topped over some of the houses.

Cracks show here and there in the pavement throughout the district affected, and now and then the asphalt is buckled until the ridge is 3 to 4 inches above the level of the street. Walls made usually of a soft stone or even of adobe bricks have fallen in scores of places.

Riches have wings but poverty gets to you the quickest.

When a man feels the biggest is the time he acts like the deuce.

The long green will go quite a ways towards keeping a man from feeling blue.

A hot cook stove on a July day has no irresistible charms to the poetic, soulful girl.

We give our girls a classical education and then wonder that housework is Greek to them.

The girl with beauty is the one to fall in love with—the one with booty the one to marry.

To make the most of her figure these days a woman has got to draw it in as much as possible.

It is more to your credit to miss your shot by aiming too high than because of aiming too low.

We sometimes admire a man's stings when we want to borrow money—and he lets us have it.

Just so long as a woman's age doesn't tell on her, she never will acknowledge that she is over 25.

Roosevelt and his anti-race suicide ought to be popular with Virginia, the "Mother of Presidents."

The savior didn't make any more of the three fishes than the disciples of Isaac Walton do at the present time.

We look forward to mansions in the sky—but if things are crowded we will be satisfied with a back room—up yonder.

In this country preachers have a hard time trying to get along without eating—in Africa to get along without being eaten.

An officer of Standard Oil says that all that John D. does is to draw his dividends. Even that would be a big job for lots of people.

The reason you don't hear much about happy married people, is because they don't do much talking—that's what makes them happy.

The reports are that "money is easy." That is probably the reason that it always happens that some idiot gets it before we have a chance at it.

If some folks would work as hard doing something practical as they do in chasing an ideal, they would come nearer to our ideal of what a person ought to be.

There is no use to fuss about whether to spell it "kiss" or "kissed." You can spend your time much more profitably trying to make it present tense.

Women teachers are demanding men's salaries. Lots of teachers get it, but the fact is little known because they usually have to quit teaching soon after getting married.

Many a friend who was perfectly willing to lend you money when you had a job, is hard to touch when you are out of a job and really need a loan.

The most sensible woman we have heard of for some time is the one who coaxed her hubby for money to buy a hat, then changed her mind and bought a home, paying half down.

We hold the busy bee up as an example for our children to emulate—but it would be just as well to deprecate the fact that what it labors so diligently all summer to treasure up some loaves comes along in the fall and steals.

New Highway Commission.

The proposition of Gov. Brown, to be presented to the coming legislature, providing for a state highway commission, may have its merits, but it is doubtful if it is entirely wise. Anyway, we shall wait till it is announced exactly what power and scope is to be given the new commission before we become enthused either for or against it.

If the object should be to encourage road work by the dissemination of suitable information along that line, somewhat as is done by the department of agriculture in the discharge of its duties, there might be some good in it. The national government has already been rendering valuable aid on that line, and the state might well help in the work. But if it is proposed for the state to take hold of the road making machinery and in any sense direct its operations, there will be too much opportunity for politicians to control the road work of the state, and the building of the great through highways, about which we are already seeing so much, will be subject to the class of citizens with the longest "pull."

By degrees, even if slow, our roads are being much improved. Under local direction the work in each county is supposed to be applied where the immediate needs are the greatest. Certain it is that the man who pays his money for road construction should be given the first consideration in the application of that money.

Let it be hoped that the direction of our road building will not be carried further away from the man who pays the freight.

Knocks Out Contract Law.

Reference has heretofore been made in these columns of the threat of Judge Emory Speer to disbar an attorney from practice in his court for using the word "nigger" in a manner that the court objected to.

This interesting incident came up in the trial of a case in which almost every business man in Georgia, farmer, lumberman, or what-not, is intensely interested. The case was one in which the defendant was charged with peonage. His defense was based on the Georgia labor contract law, which makes it a misdemeanor for any person to violate a labor contract. The judgment of the court was that the Georgia law is invalid, and that to try to enforce the law is peonage.

This decision of Judge Speer knocks out a great boon for the man who has to deal with irresponsible labor. There are trifling negroes and whites all over the country who will secure an advance of cash or supplies on a promise to work out the debt then jump their contract. Under the law forbidding imprisonment for debt, the man who advances his cash is helpless to protect himself from loss. The state legislature intended to meet just such conditions as these when it passed the law making the violation of a labor contract a misdemeanor. It is not surprising that the court should declare this law to be contrary to the constitution, inasmuch as its enforcement practically amounts to imprisonment for debt.

Some Evils in the Church; Desecration of the Sabbath

MR. EDITOR:

At the risk of being criticised as a faultfinder, I propose to condemn some things I sometimes see going on in our church, and that on the holy Sabbath day. I am aware that it is an unpopular thing to condemn sin, and in so doing I may arouse the indignation of some of the guilty ones as the Savior did the Pharisees who thought they were all right because they kept the moral law. I have attended church almost every Sabbath for a long while, and have heard good sermons preached, and oft times as soon as the benediction was pronounced many of the young folks, and some of the older ones, too, would begin a perfect hilarity—trivial conversation, chattering and giggling—that showed plainly that their minds were not on the subject discussed by the preacher, or that they cared nothing for the sanctity of the house of God or the Sabbath day. This is a growing evil, especially in some of our country churches. It is an insult to God Almighty and mortifying to those who go there for a good purpose. The pastors are largely to blame for not reproving the guilty ones. By all means we should respect the sanctuary.

And there is another evil that is very detrimental to the cause of religion that I will mention. Years ago it would have been considered an insult to the dignity of the church or sanctity of the service for a young man to sit by a lady in church except his mother or sister. Then religion reigned in the church and revivals were frequent. But now it is the practice with some to strut up by the side of a girl, and their minds seemingly fixed on things foreign to religion, and if the preacher makes a proposition for mourners, she, of course, feels a delicacy in stepping over his feet to respond, and leave her dear fellow while she bows at the altar for prayer. Where these customs prevail, a revival of religion among the young people is well nigh impossible. The devil is a shrewd old fellow, and he uses many ways and many people to impede the progress of religion. We are told that he is seeking whom he may devour, and I fear he is meeting with right good success.

And while I am writing, I will mention another sin common in this country, viz.: the desecration of the Sabbath day. The Bible tells us to keep the day holy, and some preachers tell us to keep it holy, but seldom tell us how to do so. No man would think of going to his field to plow, or open his store for trade on Sunday, because it would be a violation of the law of the state; neither would a woman think of sitting at her sewing machine or wash tub on Sunday, but many people have no scruples about violating the law of God. Some folks seem to think if they can

"I was Crippled, could hardly walk and had to crawl down stairs at times on my hands and knees. My doctor told me I had an acute attack of inflammatory rheumatism. I was in the hospital for weeks, but was scarcely able to walk when I left it. I read about Dr. Miles' Nervine bought a bottle and began to get better from the start, and for the past six months I have had scarcely any pain and am able to walk as well as ever." J. H. SANDERS, P. O. box 5, Rockaway, N. J.

Few medicines are of any benefit for rheumatism, but Mr. Sanders tells plainly what Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine did for it. One ounce of salicylate of soda added to one bottle of Nervine makes an excellent remedy for rheumatism, which is now known to be a nervous disease and therefore subject to the influence of a medicine that acts through the nerves, as does

Dr. Miles' Nervine. Sufferers from rheumatism seldom fail to find relief in the use of Dr. Miles' Nervine, with salicylate of soda.

Sold under a guarantee that assures the return of the price of the first bottle if it fails to benefit. At all Druggists. MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.

Remarkable Yield of Corn On Waycross Farm.

Waycross, Ga., June 11.—An average yield of 87½ bushels of corn to the acre for a thirty-acre field for the past five years is the corn growing record F. B. Sirmans has established on a farm out from Dupont, west of Waycross.

While as high as 131½ bushels of corn have been raised on an acre in Ware, this is the record for a five-year period that will stand for some time. Another evidence of the fact that corn is a great product for this section is found on the farm of T. J. Darling, on the edge of Waycross.

He has a field already so near maturity as to show three and four ears to the stalk. The variety is a very early one, and will make for him a satisfactory yield per acre.

SPRING BRINGS SORE FEET HERE IS A POSITIVE CURE

With the advent of warm weather comes foot troubles to thousands of people. The increased temperature and moisture of the atmosphere causes swelling and excess perspiration. This brings on a series of foot troubles. The treatment given below will be welcomed with joy by an army of sufferers. It acts like magic. "Dissolve two tablespoonsful of Calcein compound in a basin of hot water; soak the feet in this for full fifteen minutes, gently massaging the sore parts. Repeat this will not give the desired results." Repeat this each night until the cure is permanent. All sore feet disappear immediately. Corns and callouses can be peeled right off. The inflammation drawn out. Swelling and smarting feet tender and swollen feet need but a few treatments. This Calcein is a remarkable drug. Formerly used only by doctors but any druggist now has it in stock and will quickly get it from his wholesale house. A twenty-five cent package is claimed to cure the worst foot.

CARRY NATION YIELDS TO WILDER OF GREAT SCYTHE

FAMOUS SALOON SMASHER ENDS STRENUOUS CAREER

Leavenworth, Kan., June 10.—Carry Nation, the saloon smasher, who boasted that she had been arrested and thrown into jail more times than any criminal, is dead at a local sanitarium of paresis.

She had been insane since January 22, when she entered a local hospital in an effort to regain her mental poise.

Mrs. Nation died shortly before midnight after lying unconscious from noon. Worry over lawsuits which she had brought against a lecture bureau for alleged failure to pay for her services on the platform, brought on the breakdown, which resulted in softening of the brain.

While the "smasher" was in the sanitarium here none of her relatives was allowed to visit her.

Mrs. Nation, a fervid prohibition advocate, started on her saloon smashing crusade in December, 1900, when she cleaned out the Carey hotel at Wichita. She was arrested and remained in jail several days before being released on bond.

The following month, armed with her hatchet, she made an other raid on Wichita and smashed two saloons. During the next three months she smashed a score of saloons in Kansas towns and "smashing parties" were organized all over the state.

Her career was stormy but merry. Wherever Carry went, the hatchet found work to do. Of late years she had confined her operations to the more or less harmless lecture platform, with only an occasional sidewalk at a cigarette smoker or a whiskey drinker.

The body will be taken to Kansas City, Kan., by Mrs. M. D. Moore, her sister-in-law, this afternoon, and the funeral will be held in the Moore residence. The date will be decided later.

Carry Nation was born near Versailles, Ky. In 1875 she was married to a Dr. Lloyd, who died of diphtheria tremors, and it is thought that this first gave her the idea of waging a campaign against the rum demon. After ten years of widowhood she married Davis Nation and lived in Warrensburg, Mo., where she was editor of a paper. Later she moved to Texas, where she conducted such a strenuous reform campaign that even the sturdy sons of the Lone Star State sought the storm cellar when they saw her coming. For a time she kept the whole state in a constant turmoil. Afterward the Nations moved to Kansas, where she began her famous saloon raids, breaking up bar rooms and frightening bartenders and customers out of their wits in many instances.

In August of 1901 the strenuous life palled on Mr. Nation and he sought and found relief in the divorce courts. He is said to be living a retired life now in Oberlin, Ohio.

By the sale of "souvenirs," the wreckage of "smashed" saloons and lectures, Mrs. Nation accumulated a fortune of nearly $150,000.

On February 11, 1911, Mrs. Nation suffered a nervous collapse from which she never recovered.

Rural Letter Carrier Wants Roads Worked

To the Patrons of Rural Route No. 2, Stillson, Ga.:

It is directed by 4th Asst. P. M. Gen. P. V. DeGraw, that the carriers of rural routes and their patrons co-operate and use their best efforts in securing good roads. He directs that all streams should be bridged and roads properly graded so as to shed water, and if the roads and bridges are not kept in good repair, that is sufficient cause for the withdrawal of mail service from such route.

Now, I want to suggest that we, as carrier and patrons, use our very best efforts toward the improvement of the roads on our route so that they will stand the test. It is to our mutual interest to have good roads, so let's work in harmony and in earnest. There is a stretch of road from Judge J. P. Brannen's to Mr. R. L. Graham's, a distance of three miles, that, if weighed in the balance, would be found wanting. There are other small places and numerous small bridges that need attention, and after a storm there should be some one to see that the roads are cleared.

Can we afford to have the mail service withdrawn from these portions? It would seriously cripple the whole route. Besides, you people help support the national government as well as pay your road taxes, therefore are entitled to as good roads and as good mail service as anybody else. You are paying for them, and ought to have them. While your roads are being neglected, perhaps some other roads that are in better shape are getting extra touches. Had you thought of that? Get busy and look around; see what is going on, and speak for yourselves before it is too late.

It is rumored that there is a move on foot to pave the automobile road through our midst, which will mean the continued neglect of our other roads. Let us make our troubles known to our honorable road commissioners; let them know that we want the road work for which we are paying.

Very truly,
M. A. NEWTON,
Carrier Route 2, Stillson, Ga.

Georgia Cotton Acreage Shows Slight Increase.

Atlanta, June 8.—Georgia has 5,069,498 acres planted in cotton this year, or an increase of two per cent over the acreage of 1910, according to the crop report for May issued by T. G. Hudson, commissioner of agriculture. The condition of the growing crop as compared with last year is 87.5 for 1911 against 80 for 1910.

Making Home Happy.

(Exchange.)

We hear a great deal these times about the ideal happy home, and men are not scarce who expect all the requisites for a happy home to come from one side of the house.

A woman may do her level best to make life and home happy for her husband and children, but if she is treated as a slave, and only given her board and clothing in payment for her services as mother, wife, cook, laundress, nurse girl, chambermaid and seamstress, is it any wonder that little or no happiness exists in that home? If a mother spoils her son by pampering and waiting on him all the years of his childhood and boyhood, and making him think that a man should always be waited on by a woman of his household, is it strange that he expects a wife to do the same, and that, in all likelihood, she either wears out in a few years from such service, or else becomes bitter or disheartened. We are often told that in every true and ideal marriage both husband and wife must learn to bear and forbear. In every home where happiness exists, there must be perfect trust, confidence and sunshine in the world, and both quite necessary—the one which is caused by the sun's shining out door, and the other by shining in our hearts. It is the loving deeds, the cheery, hopeful words, and the kindly thoughtfulness that each member of the family shows towards the others that makes an ideal, happy home—a perfect heaven on earth.

SEE ME TO SEE RIGHT

Dr. C. R. COULTON, of course.

There's nothing too good for your eyes.

Between old fashioned spectacle fitting and optical service there is a very wide difference, and this difference counts in the preservation of sight. Failing or imperfect vision may be due to any of a large number of causes. These causes can be determined only by very delicate scientific tests, and each eye being tested separately according to correction needed.

I provide modern optical service; I learn just what the trouble is and correct it, having lenses specially ground when necessary. My charges for fitting glasses are reasonable.
